DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This three story high, two bay wide gabled house is built of brick and has a shallow gabled roof. It was built contemporaneously with 1009 Leadenhall Street, its northern neighbor. A short flight of concrete steps rises above the basement to the entrance on the right. The cornice is brick.

The building has a remarkable series of backbuildings which mirror those of the neighboring house (the houses to the south have all been demolished). The backbuildings were either built contemporaneously with the main houses, or, a common owner or collaborating owners planned the correspondence which exists in the rear of each structure.

The main 3 story portion of 1011 Leadenhall is L shaped in plan. A $1\frac{1}{2}$ bay wide, one bay deep, 3 story leg is appended to the right side on the rear, sharing a party wall with the corresponding leg of the neighboring house. A column of fenestration runs up the left bay on the rear of the main house, and a column of fenestration also runs up the side of the leg, permitting light to enter all interior spaces. The leg is roofed with a shed which corresponds to the slope of the rear of the main gable.

Slightly wider than $1\frac{1}{2}$ bays, a four bay deep telescoping set of additions runs behind. The first is a two story high, two bay deep, backbuilding, which is roofed with a shed sloping down from the party wall. From the peak of the rear wall rises a brick chimney which was covered by a pointed brick, ^{arch} and which relies for support on its abutting, corresponding member of the neighboring house. The side wall is regularly fenestrated with four windows; the rear wall has a single window on the second floor at the left.

Extending from the rear of this addition is a two bay deep single storied, shed-roofed extension which is of the same width. Built of brick, the slope of the shed runs down from the party wall. The side wall holds an entrance on the left and a window on the right. The rear wall is fenestrated with two windows.

Brickwork throughout the structure is of common bond. All windows have wooden sills and lintels and are filled with double hung windows with 6/6 lights. A small yard to the rear is enclosed with a wire fence where morning glories climb. All roof surfaces are tarpapered and tarred. Rain gutters are set at each horizontal edge with spouts directing water to each roof below, so that the spout on the 1 story addition receives all water dropped from the peak of the main gable back.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Typical of the rational vernacular building which occurred as a result of lot restrictions, combined with the need for enclosed space and light, this mid century building is a vivid example.
